

Acknowledgements	11
Abbreviations	13
Preface	15
From Psychoanalysis and Literature to Political Anthropology
Introduction	17
Deleuze, Politics, and the Problem of Human Nature
1. Politics and the Problem of Human Nature: Political Anthropology	17
2. Deleuze and the Problem of Human Nature: Philosophical Anthropology	23
Chapter One	33
The Metaphysics of Psychoanalysis
Introduction: Psychoanalysis as Idealism and D.H. Lawrence	33
1. Philosophy and Literature in Lawrence	35
2. Psychoanalytic Reading in Freud, Bonaparte, and Lacan	37
3. A Note on “Pollyanalytics” and Problem of Critique	40
4. Praxis and Philosophical Anthropology in Marx and Engels	42
5. A Substance Theory of Mind and Theological Motivations in Descartes	44
6. Experiential Unity and Transcendental Subjectivity in Kant	47
7. Spirit as Ground and the Dialectical Method in Hegel	49
8. Marx versus Descartes, Kant, and Hegel	56
9. Lawrences Conception of the Unconscious	59
10. Lawrence and the Psychoanalytic Tradition: Drive Theories and Individuation	63
11. Familial Relations, according to Lawrence	66
12. The Individual and Society, according to Lawrence	69
Conclusion	74
Chapter Two	77
The Metaphysics of Classic American Literature
Introduction: Language, Literature, and Lawrence	77
1. Classic American Literature and American Identity	78
2. Changing Identity by Changing the Blood	81
3. New Criticism and Reader Response: The Same Old Problem	85
4. Classic American Literature: Conditions Material and Ideal, Body and Mind	88
5. Spinoza and Lawrence: Parallelism and Classic American Literature	91
6. Individuals, Community, and Sympathy: Lawrence and Spinoza	94
7. Sympathy and Multitude: Anti-Democracy and Fascism	100
Conclusion	102
Chapter Three	105
Reading Anti-Oedipus from behind with Lawrence
Introduction: From a Critique of Psychoanalysis...	105
1. A Note on Metaphysics: The Organic Model	106
2. The Specificity of Schizophrenic Experience	109
3. A Materialist Conception of the Unconscious	116
4. Syntheses of the Unconscious	121
5. Connective Synthesis	124
6. Disjunctive Synthesis	129

7. Conjunctive Synthesis	140
8. Social Machines	148
9. Primitive Territorial Machine	153
10. Barbarian Despotic Machine	162
11. Civilized Capitalist Machine	169
Conclusion	178
Chapter Four	181
Anglo-American Literature as a Philosophical Concept
Introduction: ...to the Superiority of Anglo-American Literature	181
1. The Line of Flight: Exiting versus Leaving	184
2. Anglo-American Literature: Individuals and Community	188
3. Tricksters versus Traitors: Imitation versus Becoming	192
4. Hume and the Exteriority of Relations	196
5. Spinoza, Parallelism, and Affects	200
6. Bodies, Events, and the Stoics	204
7. Assemblages and the Political	207
Conclusion	213
Chapter Five	217
The Political Significance of Opinion, Philosophy, and Art
Introduction: Opinion as a Problem	217
1. Elements of Opinion	218
2. Development of Opinion in Relation to Chaos: Denial	222
3. Political Significance of Opinion: Creating Consensus	225
4. Elements of Philosophy and Art	234
5. Relation of Philosophy and Art to Chaos: Uneasy Alliance	241
6. Political Significance of Philosophy and Art: Inventing a People, Making Brains	247
Conclusion	254
Chapter Six	257
Creating a People to Come
Introduction: Liberalism and its Failures	257
1. Inclusive Particularism: The Political Significance of Philosophy and Art	262
2. D.H. Lawrence, Christianity, and Fundamentalism	263
3. The Meaning(s) of Revelation	264
4. Christianity: Aristocratic and Popular	265
5. Selves: Individual and Collective	267
6. People and Power	272
7. T.E. Lawrence, Arabs, and Exclusivism	275
8. The Creation of Shame as an Affect	275
9. The Political Significance of Literature	279
10. Becoming (with but not like) Arab	284
11. Walt Whitman, America, and Nationalism	288
12. The Specificity of American Experience	288
13. An Alliance with Nature as Fragmented Reality	290
14. The Creation of Relations as Camaraderie	293
Conclusion	297
Conclusion	301

Political Anthropology, Liberalism, and Deleuze

Bibliography

309

Index

321